Math

Practice work is being sent home in the red folders on Tuesday each week. Take a look and see the algebraic expressions and order of operations problems we have been working on!
One-on-one Gloss testing continues.

English & Language Arts

We should have a minimum of 2 chapter books finished on our reading log this week.
One-on-one F&P testing continues.
We will work on comparing and contrasting characters, settings, and events and review inferences.

Science

We have learned about scientific classification and specifically how the animal kingdom is broken up into vertebrates and invertebrates. We even built a model backbone on Friday! Now we will learn about how plants are classified!

Social Studies

This week we concentrated on why people immigrated to America at the turn of the century. Now we move on to learning about two presidents who helped expand our country...William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.
