Good to Know:

- Thank you for making sure that your student is completing their homework every night! The nightly review is helping students prepare for the work-load in middle school. If they are struggling with getting their homework done, consider setting up a time and a place at home that allows our students quiet, uninterrupted time until they finish. This routine will help them tremendously next year when their responsibilities increase and they have to stay on top of it all without your help!
- We will be working on a "Wax Museum" for our next big project. Your student will need a costume once they pick their historical figure and that's where your help will be needed! More info to come home soon!
